12) In this case and File No 58, Serial No 9, two applications from Pallagar Pensioners for marriage loans have to be disposed of:-

loans of Rs 600 & Rs 300 are requested, the pensions being Rs 48-11-8 per month and Rs 42-3-0 respectively. The Khajana Bakshi, State Huzur Treasury, recommends that loans of Rs 600 & Rs 300 respectively may be granted, monthly deductions of Rs 15 and Rs 22-1-6 being made from the pensions concerned.

13) The principle or propriety of making loans of this character seems to deserve ~~consideration~~. There is no law, rule or order recognizing it, the sanction of these loans in the past being based on the slender ground of precedent. To this, the argument of affording convenience to Political Pensioners and of having satisfactory security in the pensions themselves, for the money advanced except in the case of life pensions, may be added. These seem to exhaust all that can be said in favour of the policy of granting such loans:-

Considerations against the system, which are as follows:—

(i) The loans carry no interest & thus cause loss of revenue to the State.

(ii) Political Pension is itself based on generous concession, rendering further concessions a matter of doubtful expediency.

(iii) These loans may often lead to the opposite of thrift.

(iv) They may unduly tax the survivors of the present pensioners in their capacity to maintain themselves.

& (v) As a rule loans of this character are not made in British India out of public revenues, though the Pensions Act of 1871 is also in force there.

15) It may be observed here that in the Resolution of the Govt. of India, No 13, dated 1st Jan 1889, special provision is made for loans to "Landholders and notabilities apart from the provisions of any law". But no details are given there about the matter. The Govt. of Bombay, however, interpret it in a sense strictly in consonance with public interests. For, they say as follows:—

"The loans to landlords and notabilities contemplated in the Resolution of the Govt.

of India No 13, dated 1st January 1889 are meant for loans that have in them some purpose of a public or political character. There are the strongest objections to loans being made from the public funds for objects that are of a purely private character, and were the Govt to consent to make such loans, the claims upon them would be endless and they would be interfering in business that is much better left to private lenders."

Vide Standing orders of Govt.: Financial Dept. page 436. para 14: (Edition 1903).

15) The Finance Dept may perhaps be viewed as making sufficient provision for political considerations. These objections are so weighty in character as to call for a serious examination of the expediency of sanctioning these loans out of the public revenues. This general point may be decided once for all with advantage, enabling the easy & automatic disposal of individual applications from Political Persons for loans for purely private purposes.

(9) Submitted to His Highness.

I submit herewith the marginally noted three applications for special loans for marriage and other purposes, received from certain Pollegar pensioners of the State.

1. Application of Mr. Venkataraju, Anegundi Pollegar, for a loan of Rs.600 for the celebration of certain marriages.
2. Application of Mr. Bharamappa Naik, Molakalmuru Pollegar, for a loan of Rs.300 to liquidate the debts incurred on account of certain marriages.
3. Application of Mr. M. Krishnaraj Urs, Anegundi Pollegar, for a loan of Rs.2,000 for the marriage of his son.

2. In this connection, I solicit a kind reference to the Deputy Secretary's note on File No.58 of 1912, in which the principle or propriety of granting such loans has been discussed.

Pages 4-6 of office notes.

3. As pointed out therein, there is at present no law, rule or order recognizing the grant of such loans which has come into existence only recently, that is, since 1910.

(B)

4. These loans, it may be noted, carry no interest and are liquidated by small monthly deductions from the pensions concerned.

5. The propriety of making loans of the kind from the public revenues for objects of a purely private character seems open to objection. They are not made in British India and by making money readily available, we will be indirectly placing a premium on improvidence on the part of these pensioners who will naturally be tempted to be more liberal than they can afford. There is at the same time no guarantee that the survivors will undertake to discharge any outstanding loan when they succeed to the pension on the demise of the present holders.

there been applications for loans but there have also been petitions for suspension of payment of instalments for temporary periods on the plea of meeting other unforeseen family expenses and these requests have been complied with in the past.

7. On the whole, the arrangement seems to be fraught with difficulties. I would therefore recommend that the three applications now under consideration be declined.
